Annie's Love

MARGARET MOOREHEAD
FOR PFAFF

Made by Margaret Moorehead and modelled by Alyssa Harris, beloved granddaughter of CE's own Advertising Manager Anne Newman, we have taken the liberty of naming this gorgeous little dress Annie's Love.

A Creative Consultant for Pfaff North America, Margaret is a talented artist and tutor who travels widely throughout the US, sharing her unique talents with those she meets. Margaret created this delightful dress for the 2004 Pfaff North American Dealer Convention held in Nashville.

Made from black silk dupioni, it is classic in design – with puff sleeves and a full skirt – yet unique in its embellishments. The Pfaff automatic stitch building feature is used to create a continual lattice effect which simulates smocking. The design is stitched out in the large embroidery hoop using silver metallic thread. This effect is also echoed on the edge of the puff sleeves.

Embroidery designs from Jenny Haskins' Rose Bud design CD are scattered around the hemline. Margaret used lavender crystal incandescent organza for the appliqué in the centre of the design, with hundreds of ribbon rose garlands surrounding the appliqué, creating a field of flowers. A sash of organza with a fluffy bow tied at the back completes an adorable piece fit for that little princess in your life. 🌸
