Embroidery Software

1. What embroidery software do you use?
2. You work on a Mac, do you have embroidery software for your Mac

Pfaff/Husqvarna

Quilting with my embroidery machine

1. What does quilting in the hoop mean?
2. Can I “quilt” after the top is pieced, and the batting and backing are in place?

Quilting in the hoop:

Simplest Definition:

Anytime you are stitching through 3 layers
using your embroidery machine

Hooping

- 1. Which is best? To use the smallest hoop to accommodate a design or fill your large hoop with as many designs as will fit?*

Well....it depends

Stabilizers/Stabilizing

Tear away
Cut away
Water soluble
Disappears with heat

Sticky
Heat Activated
Water Activated

TEAR-AWAY

- Most Economical
- Tears away from outside of design
- Softens with washing
- Comes in different weights
- Can be seen on the back if used with "open" designs and/or stitches

TEAR-AWAY STICKY

- Has a protective paper covering the “sticky”
- Hoop with the protective paper up
- Always remove the protective paper
- Tears away from outside of design
- Can sometimes gum up the needle
- Softens with washing
- “Sticks” to your project for better placement and melding of the project and the stabilizer.
- Can be seen on the back of your project if used with “open” designs and/or stitches
- Sometimes leaves sticky residue in your sewing machine bobbin area

Margaret Moorehead's
Virtual Sewing Guild

January 2019

TEAR-AWAY FUSIBLE AND WATER ACTIVATED TEAR AWAY

- Fusible-can be fused very lightly
  - Gives gentle hold, which allows it to be removed easily
- Water Activated-uses a sponge to activate
  - Allows you to activate only certain area of the stabilizer. Example just activate the corners to hold the project in place until you can baste it.

CUT-AWAY

- Stays in project forever
- Can be seen on the back of your project
- Great for stretch fabrics such as:
  - polo shirts, t-shirts, fleece, sweat shirts...basically all stretchy fabrics...even stretch denim.
- Cut away the excess leaving about 1/2 all the way around the embroidery area.
- Round the corners to "soften" the edges.

NO-SHOW MESH

- Comes in fusible and non-fusible
- Content: Polyester or nylon
- Melts away with a heat cutting tool
- Can be left in the project
- Fusible can be fused to the back of projects to increase the number of stitches your fabric can hold and still lie flat
- Fusible is great for loosely woven fabrics
- Use with nylon or polyester organza for the embroidery decoupage technique.

WATER-SOLUBLE

- Disappears with water
- Use only on projects that can be washed
- No stabilizer shows after washing/rinsing
- Comes as a stabilizer and a “topper”
- Can be used for embroidery decoupage
- Used for cutwork, twin-needle shadow work, lace, sheer reverse appliqué.

WATER-SOLUBLE STICKY

- Stabilizer Disappears with water
- Chemicals may need soap or fabric softener to disappear
- Use only on projects that can be washed
- No stabilizer shows after washing/rinsing
- “Sticks” to your project for better placement and melding of the project and the stabilizer.
- Use for cutwork, sheer reverse appliqué and anytime you don't want stabilizer to show on the back of your project and you want a sticky hold during embroidery.
  - Not recommended for twin needle shadow work

TOPPERS

IRON AWAY AND WATER SOLUBLE

- Plastic type of product
- Placed on top of the project
- Create a barrier between the fabric and the stitches allowing the stitches to sit on top of the fabric.
- Excellent for velvets, terry cloth and other “texturized” fabrics.
- Keeps lofty/loopy fabrics from interfering with your embroidery
- Adds extra stabilizing without making your project much stiffer

Cutting Accurately

1. I would like to learn tips for using my ruler and rotary cutter better
2. Best way to measure and cut for quilting
3. How to get quilting blocks all square and the same size
4. How can I cut quilt pieces accurately

When accuracy in size can not be compromised be sure to use the same ruler throughout the entire project.

Be sure to always line up the line on your ruler in the same place for each cut. Example: The marked line should always be directly under the ruler line, or to the left of the ruler line or the right of the line.

#7 Preparing

1. What do you mean when you say prepare your fabric?
2. Does preparing your fabric mean stabilizing?
3. Do you prewash and dry your fabric?

Preparation is Essential

Preparation is Essential

WHICH RESULTS DO YOU WANT?

Preparation is Essential

---

MACHINE EMBROIDERY

Preparing Your Fabric

To increase the number of stitches your fabric can hold and maintain a flat unwrinkled appearance, fuse a piece of knit interfacing to the back of your fabric.

Knit interfacing has a 4-6 way stretch and allows the fabric to maintain its original properties such as a nice drape, and does not add a lot of bulk to the fabric.

Preparation is Essential

FABRIC “PREP” PRODUCTS BATTING, FUSIBLE INTERFACINGS, LIQUID STABILIZER

- Each time the needle pierces the fabric it either moves or shreds the fibers of our fabric
- Each stitch of embroidery “stuffs” thread into the fibers of our fabric
- We are literally changing the make up of our fabric as we embroider

Fabric “prep” products change the properties of our fabric, allowing them the stability to hold their shape better and hold more stitches.

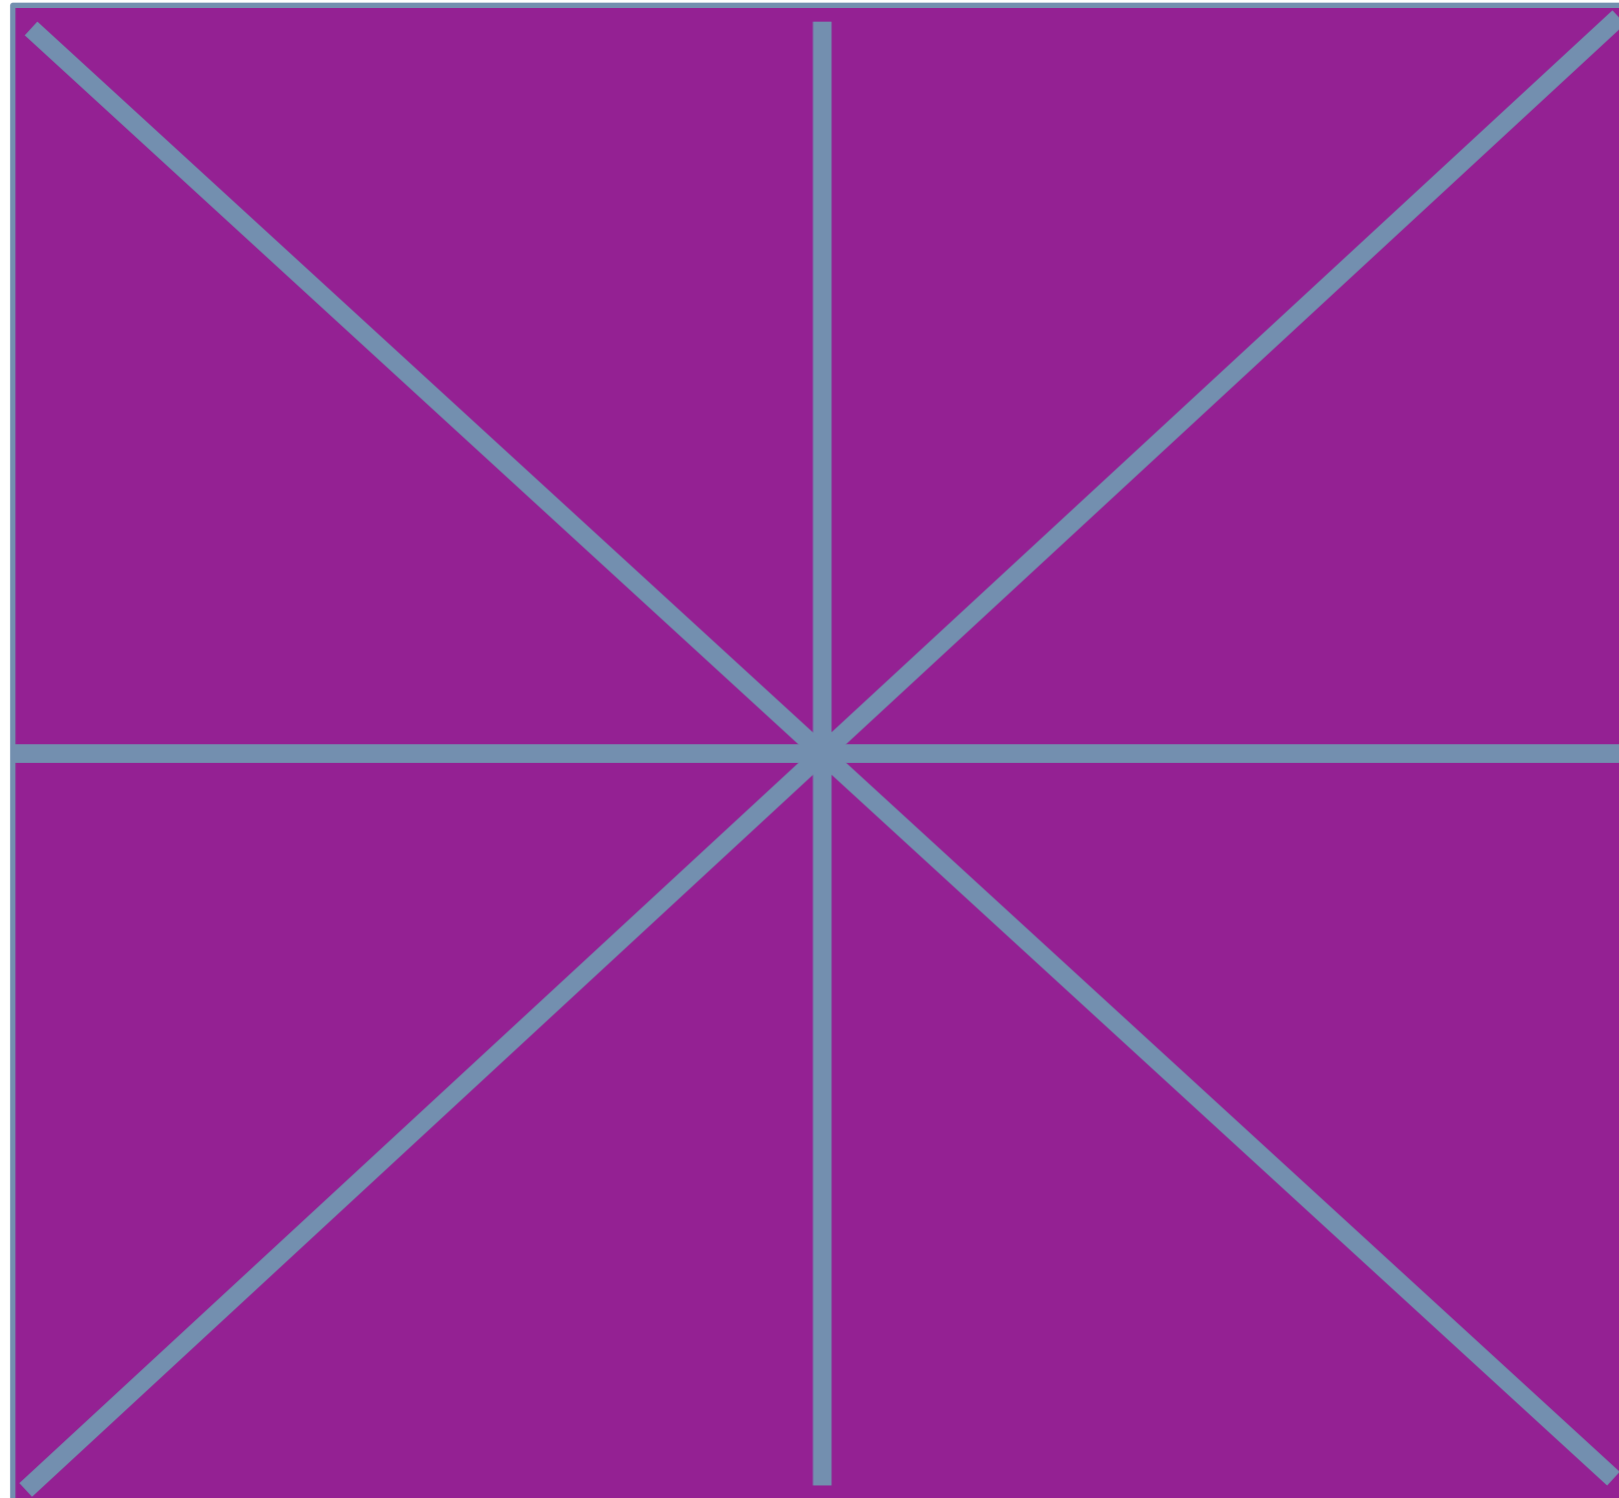

Battings and interfacings are NOT stabilizers.
Stabilize as you normally would for your project

Liquid Stabilizer can be a prep or a stabilizer

#8 Help!

What if my design is puckered after I am finished?
My Design Popped out of the hoop!

Ooppss...what do I do now?

My threads are loose on the front of the project

- ▶ Gently pull the threads to the back until they are snug and flat against your project.
- ▶ Hold in place with fabric glue, fusible web and fabric, or fusible interfacing

Ooppss...what do I do now?

My project is puckered around the embroidery

- ▶ Place the project, right side down on top of a fluffy towel or a pressing pad designed to allow the embroidery to sink into the pad
- ▶ Press from the back, using steam and pressure.
- ▶ To make sure the fabric remains flat, fuse a piece of knit interfacing to the back
- ▶ Note: if you see puckers as you are embroidering immediately float additional stabilizer under the hoop

Ooppss...what do I do now?

- ▶ My project popped out of the hoop
- ▶ Always baste your project in place then if it pops out all you need to do is hoop a new piece of stabilizer, stitch the basting stitch on just the stabilizer, then place your project on top of the stabilizer lining up the basting stitches.
- ▶ If you did not baste, hoop a new piece of stabilizer and stitch out a part of the design to line up your project on. If your project has an outline that is the perfect part to line it up with.
- ▶ If you have one of the wonderful machines with the built in camera, just line it up using that feature.

Ooppss...what do I do now?

Hoop a new piece of stabilizer, pull up your basting stitch and go stitch by stitch lining up your project exactly so the needle goes in the same holes as the first baste.

Binding and Mitered Corners

Binding that Fits

---

Plus Mitered Corners

Stitch your binding pieces together

Fold it in half long ways and press

Hint:

The quarter inch foot with a guide works great for this technique.

Attach the binding to your project using a 1/4" seam allowance

Binding that Fits Plus Mitered Corners

When you are exactly 1/4" from the edge of your placemat, pivot and stitch off the corner of your project.

Binding that Fits Plus Mitered Corners

1. Position your project so the stitched binding is now at the top and the edge you are going to stitch next is to the right.
2. Fold the binding up to the top so the raw edge of the binding and the raw edge of the project form a perfectly straight line.
